Lab Manager Position

We are looking to appoint a highly motivated Lab Manager in the Department of Biology at the University of Padua to provide support to Professor Graziano Martello's Research Group who is working on Pluripotent Stem cell biology.

The successful applicant will be responsible for both managing the daily operations to ensure smooth running of the lab, and to support research projects.

The former will involve managing research grants held by the group, procuring laboratory equipment and consumables, maintaining the communal lab stocks of reagents and the lab databases to ensure archiving of records and their accessibility, and organising lab meetings.

Research related tasks include Pluripotent Stem cell culture, molecular biology techniques, as well as general laboratory duties. The successful applicant will also have a chance to assist with research projects.

Excellent organizational, analytical, and communication skills are essential.

Candidates should hold a master degree in a scientific discipline and have a strong desire to get involved in research.

Fixed term: the position is available for one year in the first instance but with the possibility to extension for further years. The starting salary is 24,000 euros/year.

References will be requested from candidates after interviews.

To apply please send an email to martello.lab.biologia@unipd.it
